Lee Camp Hall was brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated last afternoon for the annual tea given by the Richmond Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. The chandellers were shaded in red, and silver candelabra, with red and white candles, gave an adilitional glow and brightness to the hall, showing the soldierly faces and manly forms which looked down from the portraits which lined the walls.

dierly faces and manly forms which looked down from the portraits which looked down from the portraits which lined the walls.

Rod tulips and white narcissi made the centerpiece in floral decoration on the tea table. Red and white ribbons, extending from the chandeller, were caught with clusters of glossy, dark green laurelleaves. Vases of the red and white flowers rested also on the chocolate table and wherever a point of vantage was offered throughout the hall.

Ladles receiving were Mrs. Walter Christian, in black embroidered jet robe, ever black taffeta; Miss Mary Amelia Smith, in black satin and point lace; Mrs. Edgar Taylor, in black silk net, over mauve, inserted with lace and chiffon; Mrs. Etchhen Beverldge, in black net, embroidered in jet, over black silk.

The hall was filled with a throng of veterans, visiting Daughters, guests from other States, members of the different organizations and of the chapter. Everyone was animated; the hostesses of the occasion were most cordial in their greeting, and the spirit of the Confederacy seemed to live again in every heart and on every lip of those present.

The young ladies, who looked charming in their white trocks and red and white ribbons and handed refreshments to callers, were: Miss Helen Wiffn, Miss Nellie Spence, Miss Jonnie Cullen, Miss Eleanor Alcock, Miss Lucy Newton Christian, Miss Rosalie Funtaine Jones. Miss Bessie Boyden, of Albemerie; Miss Elizabeth Morrison, Miss Helen Methityre and little Misses Martha Purcell and Martha Chambers.

The portrait painted by Miss Emma. Whitfield of General Richard Griffith, of Mississippl, was on exhibition in the hall and excited much complimentary comment, the likeness being considered a very strong one. The portrait will be seen at the rooms of the Richmond Art Company for a week before it is sent to Mississippl, where it will be hung in the new Capitol building.

Among the strangers present were Mrs. H. B. Smith, of Chicago, and Miss Neilie Emith, of New York.

PHILIP, MY KING.

By DINAH MARIA MULOCK CRAIK.

"Who bears upon his baby brow the round And top of so ereignty." BY MISS MULOCK.

ah Maria Mulock Craik was born at Stoke upon Trent, Eng., in 1826, and died at October 12, 1837. Her father was a clergyman. She married George Lillle Crai, historian and essayist. Her chief fame is due to "John Hallfax, Gentleman, her novels from her pen. This poom was addressed to her nephew, Philipher novels from her pen. This poom was addressed to her nephew, Philipher Marston, who became a plot of considerable fame. He suffered the affilt tion allef of becoming blind. He had contributed much to American magazines, two lines of verse following the title of this poom were selected by Aiss Mick, he seenes of the witches' caldren in Macboth, where they are addressed is Macothe appartion of a child that the witches have conjured up, to lead Macbeth on down.

OOK at me with thy large brown eyes OOK at me with thy large brown eyes,
Philip, my king!
Round whom the enshadowing purple lies
Of babyhood's royal dignities.
Lay on my neck thy tiny hand
With love's invisible scepter laden;
I am thine Esther to command
Till thou shalt find a queen-handmaiden,
Philip, my king.

Oh the day when thou goest a woolng,
Philip, my king!
When some beautiful lips 'gin suing,
And some gentle heart's bars undoing
Thou dost enter, love-crown'd, and there Sittest love-glorified. Rule kindly,
Tenderly, over thy kingdom fair,
For we that love, ah! we love so blindly,
Philip, my king.

Up from thy sweet mouth,—up to thy brow,
Philip, my king!
The spirit that here lies sleeping now
May rise like a glant and make men bow
As to one heaven-chosen among his peers.
My Saul, than thy brethren taller and fairer,
Let me behold thee in future years!
Yet thy head needeth a circlet rarer,
Philip, my king. Philip, my king.

—A wreath not of gold, but palm. One day,
Phillip, my king!
Thou too must tread, as we trod, a way
Thorny and cruel and cold and gray:
Rebels within thee, and foes without,
Will snatch at thy crown. But march on, glorious,
Martyr, yet monarch! till angels shout,
As thou sit'st at the feet of God victorious,
"Phillip, the king!"

and Reform of the City Council disposed of a large number of important municipal matters last night, not the least of which was to declare in favor of the principle of enlarging the authority of the various heads of departments so as to give them the power to appoint and dismiss employes under them, without reference to committees, and to place all city employes directly under the control of some department.

The body recommended to the Council an ordinance directing the City Attorney to draw an amendment to the city charter extending the term of the Policy Justice to four years, it being two at present, the same to be presented to the Legislatuse for adults.

evident that it will provoke a fight in the main bodies.

The new voting places for the city were designated and the ordinance favorably recommended.

The question of salaries was up, though no action was taken on this point, further than to reconsider and lay on the table some resolutions for increases that had hitherto been rejected.

FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT.

On motion of Mr. Crenshaw, an amendment to the city charter was recommended, designed to give the city control of the roadway to Oakwood Cemetery, by way of Oakwood Avenue and P Street. The matter relating to giving the various departments control of their men in the matter of employment and discharge was reported from a subcommittee composed of Messrs. Minor, Dabney and Beck, and while the principle was fully agreed to it was referred back in order to have the ordinance perfected and to ascertain whether it would be better to have an amendment to the city charter on the subject, or simply pass the ordinance by the Council.
